

Appraisal waivers can slow down the acquisition procedure. Property owners can claim lack of good faith negotiations as the offer was not based upon a legitimate real estate appraisal. The property owners would then have the right to file a traverse which could lengthen the acquisition procedure resulting in missing contract letting dates.